Language of Instruction	French
Course Type	Compulsory
Course Level	Bachelor Degree
Objective	This course aims to explain the theories that form the basis of the conceptual framework of international political economy and to analyze fundamental global economic phenomena using this framework. The main currents are discussed along with their hypotheses, which have evolved under the influence of major debates in international relations. Additionally, the contributions of non-Western conceptual and factual debates to this field are emphasized. The course examines how global economic structures are shaped by exploring studies on state and corporate strategies, global trade, regionalism movements, monetary policies, and financial governance.
Content	The course has two main parts: <ul style="list-style-type: none">- The development of theories from the formation of the International Political Economy (IPE) field to the present day.- Providing students with a framework for explaining and theoretically analyzing fundamental economic facts from a historical perspective.
