| Objective | The aim of this course is to introduce the student to the sociological literature on the classification of individuals into the groups according to inequalities and their class formation process over time in a given society. |
| Content | In the first part of the course, the focus will be on social distinction theories developed at the end of 18th and especially in the 19th century due to level of aggravation of social question. Secondly, the devaluation of the concept of class in the writings of the founders of 'classical sociology' will be treated. The third part will be devoted to the birth of the sociology of social stratification after the Second World War. And finally, we will address the "end-of-class" debate and discuss the pluralization of inequalities at global level due to neoliberal policies. |
