Language of Instruction	Turkish
Course Type	Compulsory
Course Level	Masters Degree
Objective	The course aims to introduce students to the types of insurance in the field of health, in particular compulsory medical malpractice insurance, within the framework of insurance legislation and the insurance law provisions of the Turkish Commercial Code. After the fundamental concepts and institutions of insurance law and liability insurance are explained, the course examines them in the context of the specific rules and case law governing compulsory medical malpractice insurance. It aims to give students, a group of physicians and lawyers, a comprehensive and critical perspective on liability arising from medical interventions and on how that liability is covered through insurance.
