

Content

Course Code	Course Name	Semester	Theory	Practice	Lab	Credit	ECTS
ÖHDR-365	Obligations and Responsibilities of the Employer Arising from Occupational Safety	2	3	0	0	3	7

Prerequisites
Admission Requirements

Language of Instruction	Turkish
Course Type	Elective
Course Level	Doctoral Degree
Objective	The aim of the course is to have the basic concepts of OSH law and be aware of the legislation and court decisions in this area.
Content	Within the context of this course, the subject and the basic elements of OSH law will be presented, the duties and responsibilities of the employer in this area will be introduced with all aspects. The discussion will be based on real-life cases and stories.
References	Sarper Süzek, İş Hukuku , İstanbul 2017. Erdem Özdemir, İş Sağlığı ve Güvenliği Hukuku , İstanbul 2014. OSH Law and related by-laws Court of Cassation Rulings

Theory Topics

Week	Weekly Contents
1	Subject of OSH law
2	Occupational safety and health methods
3	Employer's OSH duties/to take precautions
4	Employer's OSH duties/Risk assessment
5	Employer's OSH duties/to employ OSH professionals
6	Employer's OSH duties/to provide training
7	Employer's OSH duties/to provide health screening
8	Employer's OSH duties/emergency planning
9	Employer's OSH duties/to form OSH Council
10	OSH Duties in case of triple labour relations
11	Duties and rights of workers
12	Occupational accidents and diseases
13	Employers' responsibility deriving from occupational accidents
14	Employers' responsibility deriving from occupational accidents